Escribiendo desde los márgenes. Colonialismo y jesuitas en el siglo XVIII (Spanish Edition) Ivonne Del Valle

Durante el siglo XVIII, momento de la aceleración del colonialismo, el saber europeo se presenta como opuesto al deseo de dominio. La falacia de esta idea ha sido señalada por muchos pensadores: el saber equivalía al poder y viceversa. Este poder se manifestaba en el carácter prescriptivo de una universalidad distinta al cristianismo español del primer proyecto imperial en América. Escribiendo desde los márgenes: colonialismo y jesuitas en el siglo XVIII estudia las relaciones entre jesuitas e indígenas en tres áreas periféricas de la Nueva España (la sierra de Nayar, Sonora y Baja California), para pensar los alcances de esta pretensión universalizante. La geografía de estos tres sitios y la vida y el saber de los grupos indígenas que los habitaban tienen, en la escritura y en la constitución de los jesuitas como sujetos, consecuencias importantes que cuestionan la posibilidad de un modelo único de vida.
