Dust jacket notes: "The Brilliance of Art Deco is the first thematic survey of this unique art form which blossomed in Paris in the early twentieth century. It features over 250 illustrations created between 1908 and 1932 by the major Art Deco image-makers - Bakst, Barbier, Lepape, Picasso, Drian, Dufy, Van Dongen, Martin, Benito, Erte, Delaunay and many others. Their style characterised, popularised and revolutionised the visual concepts of the twentieth century. This book is about these magnificent illustrations and the artists who created them. It is a celebration of the achievements of these Art Deco image-makers who, through their skill, ingenuity and flair, captured the unique flavor and preserved the ambiance of this fascinating period. The illustrations in this book have been culled from over 10,000 in the author's own collection. They were originally published in a number of exclusive and luxurious publications such as La Gazette du bon ton, Les Robes de Paul Poiret; Repertoire du gout modern, Decors et couleurs; Modes et manieres d'aujourd'hui, Nous deux, Traite d'enluminure d'art au pochoir; Sports et divertissements, and many others. These illustrations originally were printed by the de-luxe pochoir process - an elaborate and expensive method of colour printing which involved very accurate hand stenciling to reproduce the exact likeness and mood of the artist's original. Julian Robinson's perceptive description and his priceless collection of images capture the creative spirit and aesthetic diversity of this fascinating period, the brilliance of which may never be seen again."
