"Writers know that it is essential for their art that they never grow up, so you could say that what you're about to read are writers already at the peak of their powers." —from the foreword by Marlon James, Winner of the Man Book Prize Up, Up, and Away is a collection of writing by fifth-grade students from Farnsworth Aerospace school, who spent months writing these original works with the help of the Mid-Continent Oceanographic Institute. From travel guides to alien planets to advice for chihuahuas on successfully piloting a hot air balloon, Up, Up, and Away captures the unique and extravagant voices of the next generation of writers.
